WHAT IS THE DC TAP FESTIVAL?

Celebrating its 11th year, The Chloé and Maud Foundation 501©3 Non-profit presents the largest tap dance festival in the world! This seven day event offers master dance classes, a filmmaking workshop, panel discussions, dance battles, jam sessions and entrepreneurship courses. Sponsors receive VIP tickets to the All-Star Concert Performance featuring world class dancers and musicians.

Our mission is to inspire and unite tap dancers and dance lovers from around the world, and together, heighten the global respect and appreciation for this rich American art form. We welcome all people, regardless of economic status, age, gender, artistic or cultural background. The DC Tap fest is a haven for the creative and artistic process, building the next generation of artists, entrepreneurs and world changers.

ABOUT THE FOUNDERS

DC Tap Festival founders Chloe and Maud Arnold are a sister dancing, choreographing, teaching, and producing duo. Natives of Washington, DC, Emmy Award nominated Chloe and Maud were fortunate enough to grow up during a time where Arts funding provided the opportunity for them to train with legendary artists; The Nicholas Brothers, Gregory Hines, Peg-Leg Bates and Debbie Allen. It was the exposure to these inspiring legends that set the bar and set these sisters on their journeys. Both graduates of Columbia University, the pair are creating opportunities to elevate and celebrate the art of tap dancing. This mission has taken them to over 40 countries and all over the United States, where they share their message of joy, love, acceptance, and tap dance. The DC Tap Festival and the Arnold sisters have been highlighted globally for their talent and their work in the community.
